Mr Epitor -Some individual has sent me the first rumber of the " Northern Statesman," edited by Charles Lowell, Esq of Ellsworth, which I have attentively perused and am much pleased with it. It must be acknowledged that it would require great research for an Editor to make better selections, and to condense into one paper more valuable matter. The editor is a anan of great industry and perseverance, shrened and of respectable talents. If the future num bers equal the first, the "Statesman will be one of the best papers of the country H L
